CHICAGO.

Carter Harrison Aiming for the United States Senate.

How the Republican Newspapers Wasted Their Ammunition.

Special Correspondence of the Gazette.

CHICAGO, ILL., Nov. 10.—When Carter Harrison was stumping this state he frequently remarked that it was time to turn one set of rascals out and let another in. Of course a good deal of this was intended for a joke but from the result right here in Carter's home where he thought he was strongest, it is evident that a good many people thought he was joking on facts. That Chicago and Cook county should have given a Republican majority is a matter of great surprise to the Republicans even more perhaps than to Democrats.

It is not likely that Harrison had very much hope in running for governor against Oglesby, but he has probably succeeded in doing what he wanted even worse, i. e., making the Illinois legislature Democratic at least on joint ballot, and laid the way for a seat in the United States senate.

The election returns were terribly perplexing here, and Chicago people were wrought up to the highest pitch of excitement by the varying reports that came in for two or three days. Early Wednesday morning after the election, Democrats and Independents were in high place; they seemed to have swept beyond a doubt more than they wanted, or rather more than they needed.

About noon the tide changed. The Associated Press claimed New York for Blaine by a comparatively large majority. The Democrats were inclined to think Gould was exerting his influence to color the dispatches, and many of them did not waver for a moment in the conviction that their standard-bearer had been successful, but the afternoon dispatches were such as to make them feel very dubious, and the Republicans were feeling correspondingly happy. Wednesday evening matters seemed to tend this way more than ever.

The headquarters of the Democratic central committee were closed. Democrats went in vain to the Palmer house for comfort. The dispatches were not at all reassuring. And while the people knew that bets were not arguments, the fact that in the pool-rooms heavy odds were given against Cleveland had a depressing effect. The Tribune and Inter Ocean were putting out bulletins by means of stereopticons that brought the wildest shouts of delight from the assembled thousands. Their returns seemed to get better and better, and as they were interspersed by humorous hits and caricatures, the crowd was fairly wild with joy.

Both papers commenced indulging in fireworks, and the hilarity of course was increased. The crowds formed in line and marched through a few of the streets, making all the noise possible. At midnight the Democrats were perplexed and Republicans were jubilant over the returns. But the next morning brought a different tale. The Republicans were mostly very discouraged. The papers that had prematurely spent their fire-works must have felt a little like the fellow who anticipated how much fun he was going to have with a bull; and after he had been tossed back over the fence in the first encounter, remarked that it was lucky he had his fun before he went into the pasture.

There are many office holders and pap-suckers in Chicago who think the country will surely go to the demolition bow-wow. Republicans as a rule who have no bread and butter element in their view and those who feel very sore of course and those who are inclined to talk about it at all declare that we are sure to have hard times on account of the people at large being in the dark as to what will be the policy of the government under a Democratic administration. Some say that there will be a certain depression for a year perhaps, but are willing to say that the general prosperity of the country cannot be particularly affected, and that everything will be running along smoothly enough in less than a year.

But how the St. John men are catching it! It is in bad taste for a prohibitionist to open his mouth in a Republican crowd now. The charge that Butler was bought by the Republicans is met by the charge that St. John was working under Democratic pay. I think both are simply campaign lies.

AUSTIN.

The Increase in Taxable Values of the State—The Land Board Adjourned.

Special to the Gazette.

AUSTIN, TEX., Nov. 13.—The total increase in the taxable values of the state during 1883 as shown by the forthcoming report of the comptroller was $75,000,000, giving an aggregate valuation of $203,000,000. About seven and one-half millions of the increase were made by the comptroller in assessing lands in unorganized counties at one dollar per acre instead of fifty cents as they were rated last year.

The land board met this evening and passed on a few contested cases of actual settlers. The board then adjourned until the regular meeting in December.

The committee appointed to prepare a charter, constitution and by-laws for the association for the establishment of a home for invalid ex-Confederates in Austin: Fred Arlton, Gen. H. F. Walker, Gen. G. N. Shelly, Thos. Pinckney, Gov. Ireland, B. Trigg, S. P. Matthews, Comptroller Swain, J. M. Goggin and T. C. Niles. It will meet and take action next Saturday.

The Passenger Rate War Still Waging.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Post's financial article says: "The features of the general situation as regards the various railroad wars, both East and West, are but little changed for the better; on the contrary, the matter is further complicated by cutting on east-bound freights from Chicago to New York."

New York. There was, however, a conference yesterday between Presidents Roberts of the Pennsylvania, King of the Erie and Dutcher of the New York Central. The result of the conference is reported to be that the Pennsylvania shall not make the war worse by cutting rates through. How this compromise is arrived at is not known in the more specific features of the situation. There are reports generally believed that the Reading will default on Jersey Central dividend due December 1, and also on interest on its own bonds due January 1.

A prominent physician lately remarked to the proprietor, that if it were admissible to make public the letters we receive, the Mothers' Friend would outsell anything on the market.

I most earnestly entreat every female expecting to be confined, to use Mothers' Friend, coupled with this entreaty I will add that storing a long electrical practice forty-four years, I have never known it to fail to produce a safe and quick delivery.
